

I really appreciate how wonderful it is to answer the phone when you know it is a person who is calling you, not a solicitor invading your private time that is so very limited. I try not to get my personal information onto calling lists, but I used to get numerous calls each day before I got on the NO CALL LIST. I beg you not to change this law and take away the little bits of peace we have in this world. Our homes are suppose to be our sanctuaries, but how can we find peace with a phone that is continuously ringing from unwanted solicitations. If this law were to be changed I would like to be more restrictive and include political and charitable solicitations.
